Me and two other friends started playing the game recently again. We had no problem joining each other and playing, but now after 2 days we can't join each other. To make The connection failed after 10 retry, wondering if anyone has experienced this as well게된 날짜: 2018년 11cumshot 24 24cumshot 137 '분개'글: 3,000 글 Cumshot럼, Cumshots 발 (리플, 싸움, cumshots글게오심 Note: It is only used to report spam, ads, and problematic posts (harassment, struggle, or vulgarity). Alien Swarm: Reactive Drop Error Report > / Feedback > Topic details [Fix itself] failed after 10 retries yes, the old problem, the old problem of trying to connect to the server, getting twelve pixels through the load bar, waiting for age, and then being crept back to the main menu with the message 'Connection failed after 10retries' message. I've gone through the last discussion and tried everything there so that it's not useful: turn off Steam on all other devices (there's only one device, but I checked my browser anyway in case I'm signed in store.steampowered.com or whatever's connected to Steam but nope!?). Join the dedicated server (previously only the most intimate job I came from the UK, there is not much)(but now I can join all dedicated servers...). Uninstall all subscribed workshop items and check the integrity of the deleted game files: autoexec.cfg (where the console command is causing the problem):7000-27050 and 48something and restart the broadband hub:disable the firewall and antivirus (as harmful as that sound), 'd allow all other devices (via Steam two-factor things):... I never had this problem until today. I can't think of anything that's changed since playing Alien Swarm Reactive Drop a few days ago. My brother, who sits next to me and connects wirelessly to the same modem to use the same broadband, can join and host the game. Since getting directions from YOJIMBO, I know I can use a dedicated server for all my needs (although my friends will have to convince them to go and use those things instead of hosting the game, let me join normally). I can stick to playing on the server only now. But it would be nice to join the game at random like I'm used to doing. I tried to set up a dedicated server for Alien Swarm: Reactive Drop and it works as expected, except my game PC can't connect to that server unless there's already a player. Otherwise, I just got an error. This session is no longer available. Anyone can connect freely. The server is running Linux and srcds through Wine, because the version I want is not available by the generator, the internal IP of the server is 192.168.1.102 and the gaming PC is 192.168.1. My 103 launch parameter is -game reactivedrop -console -ip 192.168.1.102 -Port 27015 +exec server +map my server lobby .cfg Very simple, it just defines the server name and the default map. Obviously, the port will be forwarded as needed. Any ideas? Last edited by tatazeuz #2: I know it's weird, but it makes a huge difference sometimes -ip 192.168.1.102 -Port 27015 -btw. I know it's weird, but it makes a huge difference sometimes -ip 192.168.1.102 -port 27015-btw. Connect to localhost, which does nothing. Removing lines doesn't make a difference either. Connect to localhost, which does nothing. Removing lines doesn't make a difference either. Yes, localhost does not work because you are not a host and deleting these Config Cmds in the beginning Cmd Line will not fix them, they do not need google as your friends find that this is an error that appears in csgo ... it is still the same engine after googling for a solution I find it may be caused by corrupted game files so you should check your server and client files. To check your server files, use the Validate option. To check your server files, use the Validate option. In the update Yes, I also found similar results on Google and checked the server file via SteamCMD. This error is really strange, junior members 04-22-2017 , 01:41 Re: Unable to connect to their own server unless a player is already #6 Nevermind figured out the problem. Alien Swarm: Drop Reaction > Error Report / Feedback > Connection Details Topic failed after 10 attempts, so I played with my friend, one of the new campaigns with a friend blast.my was joining me after disconnecting and he received the message 'connection failed after 10 attempts', so I told him to join the server and I would join him, I tried to join with my friend and I got the same message. So he hosted his own game. Trying to join someone I didn't succeed, but I can easily join other people's games. Anybody know what's going on?
